Conscious Communication Miles Sherts,2009 We humans spend a lot of time talking and with cell phones and the internet our daily contacts with each other have exploded Yet we rarely pay attention to how we communicate and all this talk has not improved our relationships Many of us don't know how to share our feelings and needs without blame or hear about another person's experience without judgment And often we leave a conversation without a deeper sense of understanding or connection Conscious Communication offers a new approach which leads to greater understanding instead of further division Practical skills and basic relationship tools enable us to stay connected while recognizing our differences and see other people as allies instead of adversaries As we let go of our impulse to be right and focus instead on what we need to be happy we see how joining with other people can dissolve our isolation and provide a real sense of belonging and security
