The explanation of thermal comfort is completely revised and benefits from the insight of the chapter's principal author, Fergus Nicol, who has undertaken a significant number of studies in this area. The section describing the adaptive thermal comfort model has elevated prominence at the beginning of the chapter – where it is explained in some detail – considering aspects of occupant expectation, control and clothing as well as the temporal changes in conditions that provide opportunity for maintaining more sustainable internal conditions. Noting that there is potential deviation in the expectation of comfort – as predicted by the Predicated Mean Vote (PMV) and Predicted Percentage of Dissatisfied (PPD) procedure – from that experienced in 'daily life', is a significant new stance for the guide.

CIBSE Guide C: Reference Data Cibse,Cibse,2007-06-07 Guide C Reference Data contains the basic physical data and calculations which form the crucial part of building services engineer background reference material Expanded and updated throughout the book contains sections on the properties of humid air water and steam on heat transfer the flow of fluids in pipes and ducts and fuels and combustion ending with a comprehensive section on units mathematical and miscellaneous data There are extensive and easy to follow tables and graphs Sustainable Building - Design Manual ,2004-01-01 This first volume of Sustainable building design manuals focuses on policy and regulatory mechanisms and serves as a guide to policy makers and local authorities Building Energy Management Systems Geoff Levermore,2013-07-04 Energy management systems are used to monitor building temperature inside and outside buildings and control the boilers and coolers Energy efficiency is a major cost issue for commerce and industry and of growing importance on university syllabuses Fully revised and updated this text considers new developments in the control of low energy and HVAC systems and contains two new chapters Written for practising engineers essential for control engineers and energy managers in addition to being essential reading for under postgraduate courses in building services and environmental engineering Heating and Water Services Design in Buildings Keith Moss,Keith J Moss,2013-05-13 This book provides a thorough and practical coverage of design procedures with numerous examples and case studies The author has worked with open learning candidates of all ages as well with college students and university undergraduates Heating and Water Services Design in Buildings Keith J. Moss,1996 Avoiding the need for a detailed knowledge of mathematical theory this book involves the reader in working through examples and case studies to come to a thorough understanding of the design of heating and water services in buildings Energy Management and Operating Costs in Buildings Keith Moss,2013-06-17 Managing the consumption and conservation of energy in buildings must now become the concern of both building managers and occupants The provision of lighting hot water supply communications cooking space heating and cooling accounts for 45 per cent of UK energy consumption Energy Management and Operating Costs in Buildings introduces the reader to the principles of managing and conserving energy consumption in buildings people use for work or leisure Energy consumption is considered for the provision of space heating hot water supply ventilation and air conditioning The author introduces the use of standard performance indicators and energy consumption yardsticks and discusses the use and application of degree days

Heating Systems, Plant and Control Antony R. Day,Martin S. Ratcliffe,Keith Shepherd,2008-04-15 In many climates buildings are unable to provide comfort conditions for year round occupancy without the benefit of a heating system and most HVAC engineers will routinely be involved with issues concerning the design installation and performance of such systems Furthermore in temperate climates heating of buildings accounts for a large slice of annual carbon emissions The design of heating systems for maximum efficiency and minimum carbon emission is therefore now a matter of prime concern to all HVAC engineers The book provides an up to date review of the design engineering and control of modern heating systems Part A deals with heat generating plant While this concentrates on conventional and condensing boilers small scale combined heat and power systems and heat pumps are also discussed Part B deals with heat emitters pipe circuits and variable speed pumping hot water service optimum plant size and the vital issues of plant and system control including sequence control of multiple boilers Techniques for managing the energy use and running costs of heating systems are also discussed The authors have brought together over a half century of combined experience covering all aspects of the building services Industry to provide an up to date and comprehensive text that is both technically rigorous yet highly practical This makes the book equally relevant to the busy HVAC engineer looking for a handy practical reference the student looking to build on their basic knowledge or the researcher interested in key issues of heating system design and performance

Air Conditioning Application and Design W.P. Jones, 2012-11-12 Intended for advanced students of building services this practical book describes the design of air conditioning systems Readers are assumed to have a knowledge of the basic principles of air conditioning which are covered in the companion volume Air Conditioning Engineering This new edition takes account of the latest building codes and pays greater attention to energy conservation The section on systems characteristics is expanded and extensively revised to take account of developments in the technology of air conditioning since publication of the previous edition There are expanded sections on specialist applications such as systems for clean rooms in the semiconductor industry The author has wide experience both in lecturing on the subject and in the practical design and installation of air conditioning systems

Building Services Design for Energy Efficient Buildings Paul Tymkow, Savvas Tassou, Maria Kolokotroni, Hussam Jouhara, 2020-07-12 The role and influence of building services engineers are undergoing rapid change and are pivotal to achieving low carbon buildings However textbooks in the field have tended to remain fairly traditional with a detailed focus on the technicalities of heating ventilation and air conditioning HVAC systems often with little wider context This book addresses that need by embracing a contemporary understanding of the urgent challenge to address climate change together with practical approaches to energy efficiency and carbon mitigation for mechanical and electrical systems in a concise manner The essential conceptual design issues for planning the principal building services systems that influence energy efficiency are examined in detail These are HVAC and electrical systems In addition the following issues are addressed background issues on climate change whole life performance and design collaboration generic strategies for energy efficient low carbon design health and wellbeing and post occupancy evaluation building ventilation air conditioning and HVAC system selection thermal energy generation and distribution systems low energy approaches for thermal control electrical systems data collection controls and monitoring building thermal load assessment building electric power load assessment space planning and design integration with other disciplines In order to deliver buildings that help mitigate climate change impacts a new perspective is required for building services engineers from the initial conceptual design and throughout the design collaboration with other disciplines This book provides a contemporary introduction and guide to this new approach for students and practitioners alike
