Christianity and Tradition (Classic Reprint) Philip Gledstanes Blyth, 2018-01-19 Excerpt from Christianity and Tradition
IN my youth I received a considerable amount of instruction in Christianity The result for me was many difficulties theoretical and practical on which the words of professional Christian teachers did not throw light so that it was necessary to make further search for solutions to them There are I think many persons in a similar position to that in which I was and I have tried to place my conclusions at their disposal About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

E. Copus, 2016-06-27 Excerpt from Andros of Ephesus A Tale of Early Christianity Had one been near him and watched his face closely however on this particular afternoon there might have been discovered indications of trouble as shown in the sadness of the eyes and in the lines about the mouth. Strange and disquieting thoughts had recently entered the mind of Andros the Ephesian concerning the worship of Diana, thoughts that he could not understand and difficulties which he was unable to solve. So general was the cultus of the great goddess that he was aware that he could not with safety confide his difficulties even to his nearest friend yet they were real and tangible to him and startling because of their newness and for the persistency with which they appeared to demand consideration. He was much disquieted. He remained stationary for a long time, his gaze fixed upon the temple while his active mind was busy with the problems that had presented themselves.

The Triumph of the Innocents (Classic Reprint) William Holman Hunt, 2017-10-21. Excerpt from The Triumph of the Innocents. The flight into Egypt I have assumed to have occurred about sixteen months after the birth of Jesus. Guided by Christian tradition and holding the birth of our Lord to have taken place in December, it follows that the period which I have assigned to the Flight into Egypt is the second April in His life.

The Guilt of the Pagan William G. T. Shedd, 2015-07-09. Excerpt from The Guilt of the Pagan: A Sermon. In conducting his argument, the apostle relies upon two facts in particular to establish his position. The first is that, however dim or imperfect man's knowledge of God and the moral law may be, he nevertheless knows more than he puts in practice. Of the millions of idolaters in cultivated Greece and Rome and the millions of idolaters in that barbaric world which lay outside of the Graeco-Roman civilization, he affirms that they are without excuse because that when they knew God they glorified him not as God. And the second fact upon which he founds his charge of guilt is that the dim perception of God and the moral law, as well as the idolatrous notions that were formed upon these subjects, both alike originated in the wicked inclination of the heart. These pagans, he says, did not like to retain God in their knowledge and therefore God gave them over to a reprobate mind. The apostle vindicates the ways of God in the condemnation of man because human conscience, be it much or little, is always in advance of human character and also because all the various forms of human error respecting the divine being and attributes all the idolatry and superstition of the barbaric races of mankind originate not in man's created and rational constitution but in the sin of his apostate and corrupt heart. These two facts in the judgment of St Paul justify the damnation of the heathen and to their examination we now proceed under the light of St Paul's inspiration and reasoning. I. The idea of God is the most important and comprehensive of all the ideas of which the human mind is possessed. It is the foundation of religion of all right doctrine and all right conduct. A correct intuition of it leads to correct religious theories and practice while any erroneous or defective view of the Supreme Being will pervade the whole domain of religion and exert a most pernicious influence upon the character and conduct of men. The Christian Treasury (Classic Reprint) T. S. Memes, 2015-07-07. Excerpt from The Christian Treasury. The following Discourses originally composed with a view to your instruction are now with the same design submitted to your more deliberate examination. In these latter days Christianity seems destined to undergo a fiercer trial than it has for many centuries experienced. Its defenders are called upon not merely to resist the avowed invader who assails the citadel from without but the concealed and treacherous foe who undermines the works or tampers with the garrison within. The temporising Christian who under the mask of liberality surrenders the fundamental doctrines of his creed and the imposing Rationalist who by the illusions of a factitious resemblance endeavours to substitute Philosophy for the Gospel are enemies even more to be dreaded than the declared and systematic Deist. The open attacks of the one directed against the Evidences of Christianity have but served to strengthen the great outworks of our faith by calling to its aid the united powers of its adherents whilst the machinations of the others secretly employed against the Doctrines of our religion threaten by eluding the vigilance and lulling the suspicions of its friends to subvert through fraud what had been found impregnable by force. To aid these machinations a modern and depraved philosophy hath sent abroad its pernicious sophistries infecting the sources of morality and enervating the powers of manly thought and the better to effect these purposes clad in those engaging colours which are peculiarly adapted to captivate the imaginations of young and ardent minds. Against arts and enemies such as these the most strenuous exertions of all who value the religion of Christ are at this moment imperiously demanded. In what manner to prepare for this conflict we are informed on high authority. We are to take unto us the whole armour of God having on the breast plate of righteousness and our feet shod with the preparation of the Gospel of peace above all taking the shield of faith wherewith we shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked and taking the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit which is the word of God These are the arms which are to ensure us victory in the contest and without these arms we neither can nor ought to stand A conspiracy the most deep and deadly has been formed against Christianity The powers of darkness have combined their mightiest efforts If then the sentinels of the Gospel sleep upon their posts if they do not instantly rouse to its defence they are guilty of the blackest treason to their heavenly Master There is no room for trace or accommodation The Captain of our salvation has declared that he that is not with him is against him The force of this declaration is at this day peculiarly manifest It is now become necessary that a broad and distinct line should be drawn between those who truly acknowledge the authority of revelation and those who whilst they wear the semblance of Christians but lend the more effectual support to the enemies of Christianity These reflections though befitting all who profess the religion of Christ press peculiarly on those who are destined to teach and to enforce his word To you my young friends who look forward to the clerical office they are important beyond description and if allowed their due weight upon your minds they cannot fail to stimulate to the most zealous and effectual exertions in your pursuit of sacred knowledge Already indeed has a more enlivened spirit of religious inquiry been manifested amongst you To promote that spirit and to supply some additional security against the prevailing delusions of the day these Discourses on the Doctrines of Atonement and Sacrifice doctrines against which above all others the Deist and the rationalizing Christian direct their attacks were originally delivered and are now publis

The Rest of Faith (Classic Reprint) Isaac M. See, 2015-07-15 Excerpt from The Rest of Faith N O need then for Christians to become angry at injuries they would be sweetly conscious that their blood is precious in His sight N O need to stand up for their reputation against malicious offenders N O need then to be putting self forward Oh What a Hidden monster is little self It is only little indeed and herein is seen its greatness as an enemy to the soul It is a little thing to be seeking to advance a mean thing to set forward but when set forward a devil to destroy and tear down and annihilate everything noble and pure and holy N o in a true and complete consecra tion self would be given to God and left on His altar to be consumed in His service May we not safely say that all difficulties arising in churches or in communities come from an undue attention to self But God sees this and has distinctly ordered that self shall be laid down at His feet It is this which marks the new creature Old things were full of self The new things therefore are rightly supposed to be free from self Where in reality they are not so there must either be fearful deception or fearful ignorance About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
