Zuid-Nederlandse immigratie 1572-1630 J. G. C. A. Briels, 1978 The Rise of the Amsterdam Market and Information Exchange Clé Lesger, 2016-12-05 Most scholars agree that during the sixteenth century the centre of European international trade shifted from Antwerp to Amsterdam presaging the economic rise of the Dutch Republic in the following century. Traditionally this shift has been accepted as the natural consequence of a dynamic and progressive city such as Amsterdam taking advantage of expanding commercial opportunities at the expense of a more conservative rival hampered by outmoded medieval practices. Yet whilst this theory is widely accepted is it accurate. In this groundbreaking study Cl Lesger argues that the shift of commercial power from Antwerp to Amsterdam was by no means inevitable and that the highly specialized economy of the Low Countries was more than capable of adapting to the changing needs of international trade. It was only when the Dutch Revolt and military campaigns literally divided the Low Countries into separate states that the existing stable spatial economy and port system fell apart and a restructuring was needed. Within this process of restructuring the port of Amsterdam acquired a function radically different to the one it had prior to the division of the Netherlands. Before the Revolt it had served as the northern outpost in a gateway system centred on Antwerp but with access of that port now denied to the new republic Amsterdam developed as the main centre for Dutch shipping trade and crucially the exchange of information. Drawing on a wide variety of neglected archival collections including those of the Bank of Amsterdam this study not only addresses specific historical questions concerning the commercial life of the Low Countries but through the case study of Amsterdam also explores wider issues of early modern European commercial trade and economic development. Tussen

Gideonsbende en publieke kerk Wiebe Bergsma, 1999 De Zuidnederlandse immigratie in Amsterdam en Haarlem omstreeks 1572-1630 J. G. C. A. Briels, 1976 The Rise and Decline of Dutch Technological Leadership (2 Vols) Karel Davids, 2008-09-17 This book provides a wide ranging overview of Dutch technological leadership in the early modern Europe it explains whence this leadership came about and why it ended and it explores to what extent the Dutch case illuminates the evolution of technological leadership in general. 1585 Gustaaf Asaert, 2004 De gevolgen van de val van Antwerpen in 1585 voor Vlaanderen en Brabant en vooral voor de Republiek die in belangrijke mate profiteerde van de komst van tienduizenden vaak rijke of hoog opgeleide vluchtelingen. Gouden Eeuw Cornelis Corneliszoon van Haarlem (1562-1638) Julie L. McGee, 2025-01-27 The book presents the first discussion of all the known prints executed after Cornelis designs and considers the following topics in relationship to the prints: the engravers and publishers, the print market the Latinists who provided the text for the prints and the Latin verses themselves

Immigrants and the Industries of London, 1500-1700 Lien Bich Luu, 2017-03-02 Immigration is not only a modern day debate Major change in Europe in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries led to a surge of political and religious refugees moving across the continent Estimates suggest that from 1550 to 1585 around 50 000 Dutch and Walloons from the southern Netherlands settled in England and in the late seventeenth century 50 000 Huguenots from France followed suit The majority gravitated towards London which already a magnet for merchants and artisans across the centuries began a process of major transformation New skills capital technical know how and social networks came with these migrants and helped to spark London s cosmopolitan flair and diversity But the early experience of many of these immigrants in London was one of hostility serving to slow down the adoption and expansion of new crafts and technologies Immigrants and the Industries of London 1500 1700 examines the origins and the changing face and shape of many trades crafts and skills in the capital in this transformative period It focuses on three crafts in particular silk weaving beer brewing and the silver trade crafts which had relied heavily on foreign skills in the 16th century and had become major industries in the capital by the 18th century Each craft was established by a different group of immigrants distinguished not only by their social backgrounds social organisation identity motives migration pattern and experience and links with their home country but also by the nature of their reception assimilation and economic contribution Change was a protracted process in the London of the day Immigrants endured inferior status discrimination and sometimes exclusion and this affected both their ability to integrate and their willingness to share trade secrets And resistance by the English population meant that the adoption of new skills often took a long time in some cases more than three centuries to complete The book places the adoption of new crafts and technologies in London within a broader European context and relates it to the phenomenal growth of the metropolis and technological developments within these specific trades It throws new perspectives on the movement of skills from Europe and the transmission of know how from the immigrant population to English artisans The book explores how through enterprise and persistence the immigrants contribution helped transform London from a peripheral and backward European city to become the workshop of the world by the nineteenth century By way of conclusion the book brings the current immigration debate full circle to examine the lessons we can draw from this early modern experience

Variation and Reconstruction Thomas D. Cravens, 2006 The relation of language variation to reconstructed languages and to the methodology of reconstruction has long been neglected In this volume the relationship between language and variation is considered from a number of different angles looking at evidence from various language families In doing so the papers in this volume address a number of interconnected issues which are of current concern in comparative and historical linguistics
