Vandever, 2012-02-17 Combining the theoretical tools of comparative politics with the substantive concerns of environmental policy experts explore responses to environmental problems across nations and political systems How do different societies respond politically to environmental problems around the globe Answering this question requires systematic cross national comparisons of political institutions regulatory styles and state society relations The field of comparative environmental politics approaches this task by bringing the theoretical tools of comparative politics to bear on the substantive concerns of environmental policy This book outlines a comparative environmental politics framework and applies it to concrete real world problems of politics and environmental management After a comprehensive review of the literature exploring domestic environmental politics around the world the book provides a sample of major currents within the field showing how environmental politics intersects with such topics as the greening of the state the rise of social movements and green parties European Union expansion corporate social responsibility federalism political instability management of local commons and policymaking under democratic and authoritarian regimes It offers fresh insights into environmental problems ranging from climate change to water scarcity and the disappearance of tropical forests and it examines actions by state and nonstate actors at levels from the local to the continental The book will help scholars and policymakers make sense of how environmental issues and politics are connected around the globe and is ideal for use in upper level undergraduate and graduate courses

Titans of the Climate Kelly Sims Gallagher, Xiaowei Xuan, 2019-02-05 How the planet's two largest greenhouse gas emitters navigate climate policy The United States and China together account for a disproportionate 45 percent of global carbon dioxide emissions In 2014 then President Obama and Chinese President Xi Jinping announced complementary

Networking the Bloc Klara Kemp-Welch, 2019-02-12 The story of the experimental zeitgeist in Eastern European art seen through personal encounters pioneering dialogues collaborative projects and cultural exchanges Throughout the 1970s a network of artists emerged to bridge the East West divide and the no less rigid divides between the countries of the Eastern bloc Originating with a series of creative initiatives by artists art historians and critics and centered in places like Budapest Pozna and Prague this experimental dialogue involved Western participation but is today largely forgotten in the West In Networking the Bloc Klara Kemp Welch vividly recaptures this lost chapter of art history documenting an elaborate web of artistic connectivity that came about through a series of personal encounters pioneering dialogues collaborative projects and cultural exchanges Countering the conventional Cold War narrative of Eastern bloc isolation Kemp Welch shows how artistic ideas were relayed among like minded artists across ideological boundaries and national frontiers Much of the work created was collaborative and personal encounters were at its heart Drawing on archival documents and interviews with participants Kemp Welch focuses on the exchanges and projects themselves rather than the personalities involved Each of the projects she examines relied for its realization on a network of contributors She looks first at the mobilization of the network from 1964 to 1972 exploring five pioneering cases a friendship between a Slovak artist and a French critic an artistic credo an exhibition a conceptual proposition and a book She then charts a series of way stations for experimental art from the Soviet bloc between 1972 and 1976 points of distribution between studios private homes galleries and certain cities Finally she investigates convergences a succession of shared exhibitions and events in the second half of the 1970s in locations ranging from Prague to Milan to Moscow Networking the Bloc Kemp Welch invites us to rethink the art of the late Cold War period from Eastern European perspectives Can We Price Carbon? Barry G. Rabe, 2018-04-20 A political science analysis of the feasibility and sustainability of carbon pricing drawing from North American European and Asian case studies Climate change economists generally agree is best addressed by putting a price on the carbon content of fossil fuels by taxing carbon by cap and trade systems or other methods But what about the politics of carbon pricing Do political realities render carbon pricing impracticable In this book Barry Rabe offers the first major political science analysis of the feasibility and sustainability of carbon pricing drawing upon a series of real world attempts to price carbon over the last two decades in North America Europe and Asia Rabe asks whether these policies have proven politically viable and if adopted whether they survive political shifts and managerial challenges over time The entire policy life cycle is examined from adoption through advanced implementation on a range of pricing policies including not only carbon taxes and cap and trade but also such alternative methods as taxing fossil fuel extraction These case studies Rabe argues show that despite the considerable political difficulties carbon pricing can be both feasible and durable
