Competitiveness Fdi And Technological Activity In East Asia:

Competitiveness, FDI and Technological Activity in East Asia Sanjaya Lall, Shūjirō Urata, 2003 East Asia is the most competitive and dynamic industrial region in the developing world This is universally acknowledged but not yet fully understood In particular the different strategies the Tiger economies used to access and absorb foreign technologies and the interaction of technology imports with domestic technological effort have not been sufficiently explored This book addresses this imbalance with new country studies on the interaction between foreign direct investment FDI and technological activity in building export competitiveness The book covers China Indonesia Japan Korea Malaysia Philippines Singapore Taiwan and Thailand highlighting different strategic approaches to building capabilities in industrial enterprises The book also includes a general overview and studies of Japanese multinationals overseas Those interested in the critical role that technologies can play in promoting economic growth and competitiveness will find this study of great interest especially academics and those in governments and agencies engaged in economic development policy Multinationals and Economic Growth in East Asia Shujiro Urata, Chia Siow Yue, Fukunari Kimura, 2006-11-22 This is a comprehensive examination of the role of foreign direct investment in East Asia before and after the financial crisis of mid 1997 Ideas and Innovation in East Asia Albert Hu,

The East Asian High-tech Drive Yunpeng Zhu, Hal Hill, 2006-04-26 East Asia has been an area of high economic growth for several decades The East Asian High Tech Drive argues that to maintain the growth momentum the more advanced East Asian economies need to pay particular attention to policies designed to upgrade their industrial capabilities The authors argue that effectively functioning institutions predictable commercial policies investments in human capital and infrastructure openness and macroeconomic stability are essential for growth and technological development Regarding the two lower income economies in the sample Indonesia is found to have the smallest improvement in the skill intensity of its exports while the Philippines has registered the slowest economic growth For both countries industrial upgrading issues are not as imperative as achieving or regaining rapid labour intensive growth as both recently experienced major political instabilities Asian Development Experience Vol1 Hirohisa Kohama, 2004-01-19 This book investigates the effects of Japan's foreign aid for development trade and FDI in ASEAN economies from various perspectives including the historical implications of Japan's involvement agricultural exports the development patterns of the Southeast Asian economies the formation of international production and distribution networks poverty reduction upgrading technology and industrial agglomeration The contributors analyse trade FDI and foreign aid from the standpoint of policy coherence at the interface between development co operation and many other policy areas trade agriculture food safety fisheries intellectual property the environment international finance tax policy migration and peace and security An East Asian Renaissance Indermit Singh Gill, Homi J. Kharas, Deepak Bhattasali, 2007 An East Asian Renaissance by a World Bank team led by Chief Economist for East Asia Pacific Dr Homi Kharas and Economic Adviser Dr Indermit Gill is the first comprehensive analysis of the new forces and challenges at play in the region since the Bank's seminal report of 1993 The East Asian Miracle. The report argues that regional flows of goods, finance, and technology are helping even smaller East Asian countries reap the benefits of economies of scale and that this regional integration must be encouraged. But it also points out that these measures have to be supported by actions at the domestic level to ease the stresses and strains that rapid economic growth leaves in its wake. East Asia must now turn to the urgent domestic challenges of inequality, social cohesion, corruption, and environmental degradation arising from its economic success.

Economic Dynamism of Asia in the New Millennium Yoshinori Shimizu, 2007. This book is a compendium of papers on various new movements that emerged after the Asian financial crisis which led to Asia becoming the enhanced growth center of the world. Beginning with the analysis of the Asian crisis and the subsequent capital flight, the book goes on to study the impact of these events on the Hong Kong economy, the role of the government in Indonesia, and financial restructuring in Thailand. The book then explores the new movement of regional cooperation such as Free Trade Agreement and financial cooperation and integration. On the real side of the economy, the book delves into issues such as cooperation between Japan and China, development of the Greater Mekong sub-region, growth of China, fiscal coordination in Korea, technological network in East Asia, and growth and inequality in Vietnam.

Understanding FDI-Assisted Economic Development Sanjaya Lall, Rajneesh Narula, 2013-09-13. It is nowadays well accepted that both economic growth and development are highly dependent on improving not just the availability of capital but also access to technological capabilities, infrastructure, and resources. This has gone hand in hand with an increasing economic liberalization of most developing countries. The role of the MNE as a viable source of both capital and technology is one of the key features of this new openness. In the process of embracing FDI as a solution to the myriad of economic ills, something even the World Bank has begun to do, little attempt is made to understand the rationale and the costs associated with this policy stance. Simply put, FDI is not a condition sine qua non for development. Too much emphasis has been placed on attracting FDI and not on understanding how to optimize the benefits for the host economy. This volume aims to encourage and promote research related to these issues. This volume was previously published as a special issue of the European Journal of Development Research.

Rethinking Foreign

Investment for Sustainable Development Kevin P. Gallagher, Daniel Chudnovsky, 2010-12 Consisting of country case studies and comparative analyses from Latin American and US based political economists this volume examines the recent history of foreign investment for development in Latin America in the context of the current backlash against Washington Consensus policies These essays form the broad conclusion that foreign direct investment fell far short of generating the necessary linkages for sustainable economic development
