Cluster Genesis Technology Based Industrial Development:

Cluster Genesis Pontus Braunerhjelm, Maryann P. Feldman, 2006-11-02 Clusters regional concentrations of related firms and organisations are a key element of economic growth and innovation This book discusses the case histories of well known clusters including the Hollywood motion picture cluster Silicon Valley and Boston and San Francisco biotech regions

Cluster Genesis ,2007 Emerging Clusters Dirk Fornahl, Sebastian Henn, Max-Peter Menzel, 2010-01-01 This book rigorously explores the critical initial stage of cluster emergence in which the seeds for further growth are sown Whether economic growth actually occurs however ultimately depends on various regional conditions and the processes in place The contributors offer a broad spectrum of conceptual perspectives and empirical case studies on the regional factors and policies required for economic growth They discuss the link between new clusters and established regional paths the generation of institutions and endogenous dynamics and the patterns of emergence and growth of successful clusters A number of important questions are addressed including How do opportunities and crises influence cluster emergence Is cluster emergence purely random or can it be planned How can emerging clusters be identified and their growth patterns measured How can regional policies support cluster emergence Filling a gap in the literature on the actual genesis of clusters this path breaking book will prove a fascinating read for academics focusing on economics geography entrepreneurship technological change and innovation and regional studies Agricultural Innovation Systems The World Bank, 2012-02-21 Managing the ability of agriculture to meet rising global demand and to respond to the changes and opportunities will require good policy sustained investments and innovation not business as usual Investments in public Research and Development extension education and their links with one another have elicited high returns and pro poor growth but these investments alone will not elicit innovation at the pace or on the scale required by the intensifying and proliferating challenges confronting agriculture Experience indicates that aside from a strong capacity in Research and Development the ability to innovate is often related to collective action coordination the exchange of knowledge among diverse actors the incentives and resources available to form partnerships and develop businesses and conditions that make it possible for farmers or entrepreneurs to use the innovations While consensus is developing about what is meant by innovation and innovation system no detailed blueprint exists for making agricultural innovation happen at a given time in a given place for a given result The AIS approach that looks at these multiple conditions and relationships that promote innovation in agriculture has however moved from a concept to a sub discipline with principles of analysis and action AIS investments must be specific to the context responding to the stage of development in a particular country and agricultural sector especially the AIS This sourcebook contributes to identifying designing and implementing the investments approaches and complementary interventions that appear most likely to strengthen AIS and to promote agricultural innovation and equitable growth It emphasizes the lessons learned benefits and impacts implementation issues and prospects for replicating or expanding successful practices The information in this sourcebook derives from approaches that have been tested at different scales in different contexts It reflects the experiences and evolving understanding of numerous individuals and organizations concerned with agricultural innovation including the World Bank This information is targeted to the key operational staff in international and regional development agencies and national governments who design and implement lending projects and to the practitioners who design thematic programs and technical assistance packages The sourcebook can also be an important resource for the research community and nongovernmental organizations NGOs Innovation Governance in an Open Economy Annika Rickne, Staffan Laestadius, Henry Etzkowitz, 2012 Modern innovation processes are to large extent geographically distributed where knowledge flows are more likely to be global and activities such as Research and Development and production can take place at a variety of locations around the world Hence geographical distances will or have perhaps already become less significant in today s society where knowledge generated in various parts of the world may be readily accessed Simultaneously there are strong spatial dimensions to knowledge generation and diffusion as well as

Entrepreneurship and Cluster Dynamics Cristina Boari, Tom Elfring, Xavier Molina-Morales, 2016-06-10 Entrepreneurship and Cluster Dynamics focuses on the origin and development of clusters and specifically on the role played by the strategic entrepreneurship in these contexts Although separately entrepreneurship and cluster studies have already attracted the attention of academics and practitioners this book aims to go further and offer an integrated and interactive view of topics The cross cutting approach is one of the main attributes of this book In fact the book involves a great range of organizational and economic perspectives from social psychology to conventional applied economics disciplines Moreover these topics allow the use of different levels of analysis from the individual entrepreneur behind a start up to the structure of cluster networks including the organizational levels An analysis of the change and development of clusters going further than traditional functional approaches by examining how entrepreneurs and their actions are not only influenced by the cluster but also shape the cluster development will offer an explanation of how entrepreneurship and networking entrepreneurs can foster perhaps also inhibit cluster development and change Finally Entrepreneurship and Cluster Dynamics theorizes about the role of the strategic entrepreneurship in developing start ups inside already established companies which can play the role of broker in the cluster Entrepreneurship and Cluster Dynamics offers a unique opportunity to academics researchers and students to learn about relations and interactions between entrepreneurship and cluster perspectives providing both newly and original theoretical propositions and also rigorous conclusive empirical exercises The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation Philip McCann, Frank van Oort, John Goddard, 2016-11-25 Smart specialisation is the new policy approach to the development of regional innovation systems across Europe and it involves fostering innovative and entrepreneurial initiatives which are well tailored to the local context The different technologies skills profiles business activities institutions and sectors which reflect a region s economic strengths and potential are to be fostered and encouraged to diversify in ways which also exploit the region's linkages with broader global value chains. Yet the ideas contained in the smart specialisation agenda have until now been primarily conceptual in nature. The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation draws together some of the leading regional economists and scientists in Europe to analyse how smart specialisation is working in practice. This book investigates different dimensions of the agenda as it is developing across parts of Europe from both quantitative and qualitative perspectives. The quantitative analysis examines the nature of the diversification processes undertaken by regions and the interplay between the chosen local regional development priorities and the wider global value chain impacts of these choices. Meanwhile the qualitative analysis examines the institutional opportunities and challenges facing policy makers and the key elements most likely to provide the underpinnings of a workable set of policy settings. The book is aimed both at academic researchers interested in the interface between economic geography and regional innovation systems as well as at policy makers making public policy decisions related to regional development at the local, city, regional or national levels.

Creating Knowledge Locations in Cities

The case studies in the book cover several European countries: Ireland, Finland, Germany, Spain, The Netherlands. This volume assesses China's transition to innovation nation status in terms of social conditions, industry characteristics and economic impacts over the past three decades, also providing insights into future developments. Defining innovation as the process that generates a higher quality, lower cost product than was previously available, the introductory chapter conceptualizes the theory of an innovation nation and the lessons from Japan and United States. It outlines the key governance, employment and investment institutions that China must build for such transition to occur and examines China's challenges and strategies to innovate in the era of global production systems. Two succeeding chapters explain the evolving roles of Chinese state in innovation and the new landscape of venture capital finance. The remaining chapters provide studies of major industries which contain analyses of the evolving roles of investment by government agencies and business interests in the process Included in these studies are traditional industries such as mechanical engineering railroads and automobiles rapidly evolving and internationally highly integrated industries such as information and communication technology ICT and newly emerging sectors such as wind and solar energy Written by leading academics in the field studies in this volume reveal Chinese innovation as diverse across industries and enterprises and fluid over time In each sector we observe continued co evolution of state policy market demand and technology development The strategies and structures of individual companies and industrial ecosystems are changing rapidly The sum total of the studies is a great step forward in our understanding of the industrial foundations of China s attempt to become an innovation nation
