

The Catcher in the Rye

Recommended Audience:

11th or 12th-Grade College bound students

Regular Schedule 45-minute class periods

Rationale:

This unit will be geared towards the novel Catcher in the Rye written by J.D. Salinger. This novel, often dubbed an American classic novel, is often an object of argument in many American school systems. Some claim that the content of the novel, which includes sexuality, profanity, as well as the very informal tone of the writing, makes this book too vulgar and unacceptable for a school environment. On the contrary many people see these themes as pieces of the beauty that lie at the heart of Salinger's novel. Time and time again Salinger's words and ideas seem to catch the interest of readers as they see parts of themselves through the character of Holden.

My goal in this unit is to make students see the need for a story like Catcher in the Rye to be part of their literary base. Many times in school students read great classics such as Great Expectations, Elizabethan, and works of Shakespeare. In these literary pieces students can learn about characterization, plot and good writing. One thing that these teachers may sometimes fail to do is make students see themselves through a character. In the novel Catcher in the Rye, it is easy for the reader to relate to the characters in this book because Salinger puts some much into character development in this novel. The lessons placed in this unit will try to guide students to see the importance of characterization in a novel, and in turn relate what they know about themselves and the world around them to a character in this novel. This will be approached in many ways.
