Construction Innovation Innovation In The Built Environment:

Construction Innovation Finn Orstavik, Andrew R. J. Dainty, Carl Abbott, 2015-01-20 Construction innovation is an important but contested concept both in industry practice and academic reflection and research A fundamental reason for this is the nature of the construction industry itself the industry and the value creation activities taking place there are multi disciplinary heterogeneous distributed and often fragmented This book takes a new approach to construction innovation revealing different perspectives set in a broader context It coalesces multiple theoretical and practice based views in order to stimulate reflection and to prepare the ground for further synthesis By being clear cogent and unambiguous on the most basic definitions it can mobilise a plurality of perspectives on innovation to promote fresh thinking on how it can be studied enabled measured and propagated across the industry This book does not gloss over the real life complexity of construction innovation Instead its authors look explicitly at the challenges that conceptual issues entail and by making their own position clear they open up fresh intellectual space for reflection Construction Innovation examines innovation from different positions and through different conceptual lenses to reveal the richness that the theoretical perspectives offer to our understanding of the way that the construction sector actors innovate at both project and organizational levels The editors have brought together here leading scholars to deconstruct the concept of innovation and to discuss the merits of different perspectives their commonalities and their diversity The result is an invaluable sourcebook for those studying and leading innovation in the design the building and the maintenance of our built environment Technology, Design and Process Innovation in the Built Environment Peter Newton, Keith Hampson, Robin Drogemuller, 2009-02-09 Making buildings and infrastructure more sustainable represents a key and global challenge This presents the results of research from the Australia Co operative Research Centre for Construction Innovation covering four themes applied to regeneration as well as to new build Sustainable Materials and Manufactures Virtual Design Construction and Management Integrating Design Construction and Facility Management over the Project Life Cycle and Integration across spatial scales Innovation in Construction Andre Manseau, George Seaden, 2003-09-02 How can innovation in the construction industry be strengthened What instruments and approaches are being used by governments to promote it What works and under what circumstances These key questions have profound implications This book presents a framework for the analysis of innovation models and systems in construction and an international comparison of these systems with a focus on their application in practical policy development Construction Innovation and Process Improvement Akintola Akintoye, Jack Goulding, Girma Zawdie, 2012-04-30 Innovation in construction is essential for growth The industry strives to remain competitive using a variety of approaches and needs to engage structured initiatives linked to proven innovation concepts techniques and applications Even in mature markets like the Architecture Engineering and Construction AEC sector where business behaviour is generally considered as being risk averse it is increasingly important to embed innovation into mainstream business practices In Construction Innovation and Process Improvement a number of wide ranging issues from construction practice in different countries with different contexts are presented to provide a rich collection of literature embracing theory and practice Chapters are divided into three broad themes of construction innovation relating to Theory and Practice Process Drivers and Future Technologies Several questions are posed including for example What is particularly unique about construction innovation in theory and practice What are the major drivers of construction innovation What factors are needed to support and deliver future construction technologies In attempting to respond to such questions the book sheds new light on these challenges and provides readers with a number of ways forward especially cognisant of the increased role of globalisation the enhanced impact of knowledge and importance of innovation All these can have a significant impact on strategic decision making competitive advantage and sustainable policies and practices Part One deals with change management technology sustainable construction and supply chain management Part Two addresses innovation and process improvement drivers including strategic management concurrent engineering risk management innovative procurement knowledge management Part Three explores future technologies in construction and particularly how these can be harnessed and leveraged to help procure innovation and process improvement

Making Sense of Innovation in the Built

Environment Natalya Sergeeva, 2019-01-15 This book offers a new understanding of innovation in the built environment The ways meaning of innovation is constructed has important implications for policymakers project managers academics and students Through a longitudinal research study into innovation in firms and projects the book addresses some key themes challenges and concerns that practitioners face when managing innovation in the built environment It examines the key drivers for innovation in the construction engineering and infrastructure firms and projects In particular the questions of how and why innovation becomes recognised and sustained over time are explored Different theoretical perspectives are considered to explain different aspects of innovation This includes sensemaking organisational and individual identity storytelling and narration The book has practical implications for how organisational activities become labelled as innovation and for what purpose It shares some lived stories of innovation as mobilised by practising managers The connectivity between the formal narratives of innovation at the policy level and the lived narratives of innovation articulated by practitioners is explored Combining the theory with practice this book presents an insightful view on the implications of innovation in the business world today

Construction 4.0 Anil Sawhney, Michael Riley, Javier Irizarry, 2020-02-06 Modelled on the concept of Industry 4.0 the idea of Construction 4.0 is based on a confluence of trends and technologies that promise to reshape the way built environment assets are designed constructed and operated With the pervasive use of Building Information Modelling BIM lean principles digital technologies and offsite construction the industry is at the cusp of this transformation The critical challenge is the fragmented state of teaching research and professional practice in the built environment sector This handbook aims to overcome this fragmentation by describing Construction 4.0 in the context of its current state emerging trends and technologies and the people and process issues that surround the coming transformation Construction 4.0 is a framework that is a confluence and convergence of the following broad themes discussed in this book Industrial production prefabrication 3D printing and assembly offsite manufacture Cyber physical systems actuators sensors IoT robots cobots drones Digital and computing technologies BIM video and laser scanning AI and cloud computing big data and data analytics reality capture Blockchain simulation augmented reality data standards and interoperability and vertical and horizontal integration The aim of this handbook is to describe the Construction 4.0 framework and consequently highlight the resultant processes and practices that allow us to plan design deliver and operate built environment assets more effectively and efficiently by focusing on the physical to digital transformation and then digital to physical transformation This book is essential reading for all built environment and AEC stakeholders who need to get to grips with the technological transformations currently shaping their industry research and teaching 10th Symposium
