Deleuze Fascism Security War Aesthetics:

Deleuze & Fascism Brad Evans, Julian Reid, 2013-05-29 This edited volume deploys Deleuzian thinking to re theorize fascism as a mutable problem in changing orders of power relations dependent on hitherto misunderstood social and political conditions of formation The book provides a theoretically distinct approach to the problem of fascism and its relations with liberalism and modernity in both historical and contemporary contexts It serves as a seminal intervention into the debate over the causes and consequences of contemporary wars and global political conflicts as well as functioning as an accessible guide to the theoretical utilities of Deleuzian thought for International Relations IR in a manner that is very much lacking in current debates about IR Covering a wide array of topics this volume will provide a set of original contributions focussed in particular upon the contemporary nature of war the increased priorities afforded to the security imperative the changing designs of bio political regimes fascist aesthetics nihilistic tendencies and the modernist logic of finitude the politics of suicide the specific desires upon which fascism draws and of course the recurring pursuit of power An important contribution to the field this work will be of great interest to students and scholars of international relations fascism and international relations theory

Resistance, Revolution and Fascism Anthony Faramelli, 2018-10-18 Examining the under theorized relationship between revolution and fascism this book outlines a politics of resistance to these forms of domination Through an examination of the psychic conditions created by integrated world capitalism as well as by the revolutionary projects that oppose this form of financial and social organization Anthony Faramelli identifies the limits of revolutionary thinking In doing so he argues that revolutionary projects inevitably reproduce the same organization of life and structures of control as capitalism Following its analysis of revolution and fascism this book argues for a way out of our current political stasis through the development of a philosophically informed practice of resistance termed assemblage politics Drawing on the resistant philosophies developed by Deleuze and Guattari Howard Caygill's defiant philosophy and the Zapatista insurgents the form of resistance proposed is marked by a structural fluidity that allows it to avoid being captured by capitalism's repressive structures Enabling a better understanding of the current social political landscape and providing a fuller context of the political necessity to move away from notions of revolution this book is relevant to those interested in postcolonial theory and Latin American politics political philosophy and the growing field of resistance studies

The Far-Right, Education and Violence Michael A. Peters, Tina Besley, 2020-10-19 In the last decade the far right associated with white nationalism identitarian politics and nativist ideologies has established itself as a major political force in the West making substantial electoral gains across Europe the USA and Latin America and coalescing with the populist movements of Trump Brexit and Boris Johnson's 2019 election in the UK This political shift represents a major new political force in the West that has rolled back the liberal internationalism that developed after WWI and shaped world institutions globalization and neoliberalism It has also impacted upon the democracies of the West Its historical origins date from the rise of fascism in

Italy Germany and Austria from the 1920s In broad philosophical terms the movement can be conceived as a reaction against the rationalism and individualism of liberal democratic societies and a political revolt based on the philosophies of Nietzsche Darwin and Bergson that purportedly embraced irrationalism subjectivism and vitalism This edited collection of essays by Michael A Peters and Tina Besley taken from the journal Educational Philosophy and Theory provides a philosophical discussion of the rise of the far right and uses it as a canvas to understand the return of fascism white supremacism acts of terrorism and related events including the refugee crisis the rise of authoritarian populism the crisis of international education and Trump s end of globalism

Lacan, Deleuze and World Politics Andreja Zevnik, 2016-02-26 This book aims to re think the way in which the subject is inscribed in the modern political and does so by exploring the potentiality of Lacano Deleuzian theoretical framework It concerns a different ontology and a non dualist understanding of political and legal existence by focusing on questions such as how to think alternative notions of political existence and what kind of political social and legal order do these come to create This investigation into political appearance of subjects through concepts of law body and life is led and influenced by the thought of Gilles Deleuze and Jacques Lacan as well as Alain Badiou Antonio Negri and Slavoj i ek The book takes on various conceptualisations of life explores the relationship between law and life and develops an alternative notion of legal and political existence in particular in the context of rights On the back of Guant namo s legal and political discourses this work aims to show why and how the problems of world politics or the limitations of human rights discourse require an engagement with questions such as what it means to exist as a human being what forms of life are politically recognised which are not and why this distinction By pointing to a different ontology for thinking and understanding global politics and demonstrating how a trans disciplinary and philosophical approaches can foster the debates in world politics this book will be of interest to postgraduates and scholars working on critical normative ideas in international politics critical security studies and critical legal studies

The Magma of War Edgar Illas, 2024-06-21 War from the conflicts in the Middle East and Russia Ukraine to Mexican narco violence from neocolonial land grabs in the Global South to racial border health and climate crises all over the planet defines the most extreme and contradictory expression of the global world In this fascinating exploration on the history of the thinking of conflict Edgar Illas departs from military and sociological analyses to propose a theoretical exploration of war as the ontological force that produces political orders Magma is used as a geological metaphor to theorize the mixtures of politics and war that organize and disorganize global society Divided into two parts Illas study begins by surveying some of the most important thinkers of war moving from classical antiquity to the twentieth century Each thinker provides a different inflection in the historical evolution of the being of war The second part turns to a theorization of the twenty first century to claim that conflictive relations between capital state power political movements and social life in globalization culminate and at the same time reiterate the paradoxes of war as an ontological event The Magma of War is an energizing contribution to the task of rethinking politics in relation to war and an invaluable resource to all those conscious of the unstable forms of contemporary social and political life

Researching War Annick T. R. Wibben, 2016-05-12 Researching War provides a unique overview of varied feminist contributions to the study of war through case studies from around the world. Written by well respected scholars each chapter explicitly showcases the role of feminist methodological ethical and political commitments in the research process. Designed to be useful for teaching also the book provides insight into feminist research practices for students and scholars wanting to further their understanding what it means to study war and other issues from a feminist perspective. To this end every author follows a four part structure in the presentation of their case study outlining a research puzzle explaining the chosen approach describing the findings and finally offering a reflection on the feminist commitments that guided the research. This book Provides a multi disciplinary perspective on war by drawing on disciplines such as anthropology history literature peace research postcolonial theory queer studies security studies and women s studies. Showcases a multiplicity of experiences with war and violence emphasizing everyday experiences of war and violence with accounts from around the world. Challenges stereotypical accounts of women violence and war by pointing to contradictions and unexpected continuities as well as unexpected findings made possible by adopting a feminist perspective. Teases out linkages between various forms of political violence against women but increasingly also by women. Discusses theoretical and methodological innovation in feminist research on war. This book will be essential reading for advanced students and scholars of Security Studies Gender and Conflict Women and War Feminist International Relations and Research Methods. War, Identity and the Liberal State Victoria Basham, 2013-07-24 This book critically examines the significance of gender race and sexuality to wars waged by liberal states. Drawing on original field research with British soldiers it offers insights into how their everyday experiences are shaped by and shape a politics of gender race and sexuality that not only underpins power relations in the military but the geopolitics of wars waged by liberal states. Linking the politics of daily life to the international is an intervention into international relations IR and security studies because instead of overlooking the politics of the everyday this book insists that it is vital to explore how geopolitical events and practices are co constituted reinforced and contested by it. By utilising insights from Michel Foucault the book explores how shared and collectively mediated knowledge on gender race and sexuality facilitates certain claims about the nature of governing in liberal states and about why and how such states wage war against illiberal ones in pursuit of global peace and security. The book also develops post structural work in international relations by urging scholars interested in the linguistic construction of geopolitics to consider the ways in which bodies objects and architectures also reinforce particular ideas about war identity and statehood. Eating Otherwise Maria Christou, 2017-09-28 This book explores the philosophical implications of the popular adage that you are what you eat through twentieth century literature. It investigates the connections between the alimentary and the ontological between what or how one eats and what one is. Maria Christou s focus is on two influential modernist figures Georges Bataille and

Samuel Beckett and two influential postmodernist figures Paul Auster and Margaret Atwood She aims to theorize the relationship between modernism and postmodernism from a specifically alimentary perspective By examining the work of these major twentieth century authors this book focuses on strange or unusual acts of eating eating otherwise as a means to ways of being otherwise What can eating tell us about being about who we are and about our being in the world This powerful innovative study takes literary food studies in a new direction

Emotions, Politics and War Linda Åhäll, Thomas Gregory, 2015-07-03 A growing number of scholars have sought to re centre emotions in our study of international politics however an overarching book on how emotions matter to the study of politics and war is yet to be published This volume is aimed at filling that gap proceeding from the assumption that a nuanced understanding of emotions can only enhance our engagement with contemporary conflict and war Providing a range of perspectives from a diversity of methodological approaches on the conditions maintenance and interpretation of emotions the contributors interrogate the multiple ways in which emotions function and matter to the study of global politics Accordingly the innovative contribution of this volume is its specific engagement with the role of emotions and constitution of emotional subjects in a range of different contexts of politics and war including the gendered nature of war and security war traumas post conflict reconstruction and counterinsurgency operations Looking at how we analyse emotions in war why it matters and what emotions do in global politics this volume will be of interest to students and scholars of critical security studies and international relations alike

Race and Racism in International Relations Alexander Anievas, Nivi Manchanda, Robbie Shilliam, 2014-10-30 International Relations as a discipline does not grant race and racism explanatory agency in its conventional analyses despite such issues being integral to the birth of the discipline Race and Racism in International Relations seeks to remedy this oversight by acting as a catalyst for remembering exposing and critically re articulating the central importance of race and racism in International Relations Focusing especially on the theoretical and political legacy of W E B Du Bois s concept of the colour line the cutting edge contributions in this text provide an accessible entry point for both International Relations students and scholars into the literature and debates on race and racism by borrowing insights from disciplines such as history anthropology and sociology where race and race theory figures more prominently yet they also suggest that the field of IR is itself an intellectually and strategic field through which to further confront the global colour line Drawing together a wide range of contributors this much needed text will be essential reading for students and scholars in a range of areas including Postcolonial studies race racism in world politics and international relations theory
