Man His Masquerade is the ninth book and final novel by American writer Herman Melville. The Confidence Man portrays a Canterbury Tales style group of steamboat passengers whose interlocking stories are told as they travel down the Mississippi River toward New Orleans. Scholar Robert Milder notes Long mistaken for a flawed novel, the book is now admired as a masterpiece of irony and control though it continues to resist interpretive consensus. The novel's title refers to its central character, an ambiguous figure who sneaks aboard a Mississippi steamboat on April Fool's Day. This stranger attempts to test the confidence of the passengers whose varied reactions constitute the bulk of the text. Each person, including the reader, is forced to confront that in which he places his trust. The Confidence Man uses the Mississippi River as a metaphor for those broader aspects of American and human identity that unify the otherwise disparate characters. Citation needed. Melville also employs the river's fluidity as a reflection and backdrop of the shifting identities of his confidence man. The novel is written as cultural satire, allegory, and metaphysical treatise dealing with themes of sincerity, identity, morality, religiosity, economic materialism, irony, and cynicism. Many critics have placed The Confidence Man alongside Melville's Moby Dick and Bartleby the Scrivener as a precursor to 20th century literary preoccupations with nihilism, existentialism, and absurdism. The confidence-man, his masquerade Herman Melville, 1857. The Confidence Man is the last major work written by famous American novelist Herman Melville. It was first published in 1857, being released on April Fool's day, which is also the setting of the story. It follows the day of a group of passengers on a steamboat travelling down the Mississippi River, destined for New Orleans. The book is generally a light comedy that has slightly sinister themes that manifest themselves throughout the story, peaking eerily at the end. Herman Melville wrote 11 novels over his career, ending with this one, although he continued to write poetry for many years until finally passing away in 1891 at the age of 72. Melville gained little recognition for his work during his lifetime; it was only in the early 20th century that he finally began to be appreciated, most notably for his novel Moby Dick. Although The Confidence Man is one of Melville's lesser known works, it is no less of a masterpiece. It is both humorous and witty, with many underlying themes such as philosophy and morality which keep the reader interested. It is a very well written book that is undeservedly forgotten.
