De Militaire Spectator 1946 Nr 4:

Nazi Camps and their Neighbouring Communities Helen J. Whatmore-Thomson, 2020-08-07 Nazi concentration camps KZs were established in the vicinity of local communities across Europe Arguably the individuals in these communities were not perpetrators nor were they victims like those imprisoned in the camps Yet they did not simply stand by on the sidelines passive uninvolved or untouched by the presence of the camps Local citizenries engaged in ambiguous and highly interactive relations with their local camps willingly and unwillingly working for the perpetrators but also aiding inmates After the war Nazi camps were often repurposed initially as post war internment camps and subsequently as penal institutions military compounds or housing encampments Over time many were transformed into sites of memory to commemorate Nazi persecution Governments and groups of survivors have often determined the re use and commemoration of KZs but these processes take place on local territory and have direct implications for nearby communities Therefore locals have continued to interact with camp legacies Nazi Camps and their Neighbouring Communities examines how local populations evolved to live with the Nazi camps both before and after the war Helen J Whatmore Thomson evaluates the different sorts of locality camp relationships that developed in wartime France Germany and the Netherlands and how these played out in post war scenarios of re use and memorialization Using three case studies of major camps in western Europe Natzweiler Struthof Neuengamme and Vught the book traces the contested developments of these camp sites in the changing political climates of the post war years and explores the interrelated dynamics and trajectories of local and national memory

The Netherlands East Indies Campaign 1941-42 Marc Lohnstein, 2021-06-24 A compact study of one of the less well known campaigns of the Pacific War which featured complex Japanese and Allied operations and included the first use of airborne troops in the war Imperial Japan s campaigns of conquest in late 1941 early 1942 were launched in order to achieve self sufficiency for the Japanese people chiefly in the precious commodity of oil The Netherlands or Dutch East Indies formed one of Japan s primary targets on account of its abundant rubber plantations and oilfields The Japanese despatched an enormous naval task force to support the amphibious landings over the vast terrain of the Netherlands East Indies The combined arms offensive was divided into three groups western centre and eastern The isolated airfields and oilfields were however picked off one by one by the Japanese in the rush to secure the major islands before major Allied reinforcements arrived This superbly illustrated title describes the operational plans and conduct of the fighting by the major parties involved and assesses the performance of the opposing forces on the battlefield bringing to life an often overlooked campaign of the Pacific War

De Militaire spectator ,1948 May 1940 ,2010-04-27 In May 1940 the Netherlands were overrun by German armed forces The five day campaign might seem to be a prime example of Blitzkrieg which led shortly afterwards to the rapid and unexpected overthrow of France This book based on the newest scholarly research argues that this is too simple a view Even though the German assault on the Netherlands made use of tanks aircraft and airborne troops it was still a classic campaign against a weak opponent in a theater on the margins of Fall Gelb In many instances artillery and infantry were the decisive factors and it is debatable whether the bombing of Rotterdam can be seen as a precursor to the aerial terror campaigns against civilian populations that marked the later stages the Second World War Contributors are H Amersfoort H W van den Doel P H Kamphuis P M J de Koster C M Schulten and J W M Schulten Oil Spaces Carola Hein, 2021-08-23 Oil Spaces traces petroleum's impact through a range of territories from across the world showing how industrially drilled petroleum and its refined products have played a major role in transforming the built environment in ways that are often not visible or recognized Over the past century and a half industrially drilled petroleum has powered factories built cities and sustained nation states It has fueled ways of life and visions of progress modernity and disaster In detailed international case studies the contributors consider petroleum's role in the built environment and the imagination They study how petroleum and its infrastructure have served as a source of military conflict and political and economic power inspiring efforts to create territories and reshape geographies and national boundaries The authors trace ruptures and continuities between colonial and postcolonial frameworks in locations as diverse as Sumatra northeast China Brazil Nigeria Tanzania and Kuwait as well as heritage sites including former power stations in Italy and the port of Dunkirk once a prime gateway through which petroleum entered Europe By revealing petroleum's role in organizing and imagining space globally this book takes up a key task in imagining the possibilities of a post oil future It will be invaluable reading to scholars and students of architectural and urban history planning and geography of sustainable urban environments Catalogue of Printed Books British Museum.
