Hard Choices Donald K Emmerson, 2003-08-01 The region's most powerful organization ASEAN is being challenged to ensure security and encourage democracy while simultaneously reinventing itself as a model of Asian regionalism. Should ASEAN's leaders defend a member country's citizens against state predation for the sake of justice and risk splitting ASEAN itself? Or should regional leaders privilege state security over human security for the sake of order and risk being known as a dictators club? Should ASEAN isolate or tolerate the junta in Myanmar? Is democracy a requisite to security or is it the other way around? How can democratization become a regional project without first transforming the Association into a people-centered organization? But how can ASEAN reinvent itself along such lines if its member states are not already democratic? How will its new Charter affect ASEAN's ability to make these hard choices? How is regionalism being challenged by transnational crime infectious disease and other border jumping threats to human security in Southeast Asia? Why have regional leaders failed to stop the perennial regional haze from brushing fires in democratic Indonesia? Does democracy help or hinder nuclear energy security in the region? In this timely book the second of a three book series focused on Asian regionalism ten analysts from six countries address these and other pressing questions that Southeast Asia faces in
