Local Governance Innovation in China Jessica C. Teets, William Hurst, 2014-10-30 Despite a centralized formal structure Chinese politics and policy making have long been marked by substantial degrees of regional and local variation and experimentation These trends have if anything intensified as China's reform matures Though often remarked upon the politics of policy formation diffusion and implementation at the subnational level have not previously been comprehensively described let alone satisfactorily explained Based on extensive fieldwork this book explores how policies diffuse across China today the mechanisms through which local governments actually arrive at specific solutions and the implications for China's political development and stability in the years ahead The chapters examine how local level institutions solve governance challenges such as rural development enterprise reform and social service provision Focusing on diverse policy areas that include land use state owned enterprise reform and house churches the contributors all address the same overarching question how do local policymakers innovate in each issue area to address a governance challenges and how if at all do these innovations diffuse into national politics As a study of local governance in China today this book will appeal to both students and scholars of Chinese politics comparative politics governance and development studies and also to policy makers interested in authoritarianism and governance

China's New Social Governance Ketty A. Loeb, 2014 This dissertation explores the sources and mechanisms of social policy change in China during the reform era In it I first argue that starting in the late 1990s China's leadership began shifting social policy away from the neoliberal approach that characterized the first two decades of the reform era towards a New Governance approach Second I ask the question why this policy transformation is taking place I employ a political economy argument to answer this question which locates the source of China's New Governance transition in diversifying societal demand for public goods provision China's leadership is concerned about the destabilizing impacts of this social transformation and has embraced the decentralized tools of New Governance in order to improve responsiveness and shore up its own legitimacy Third I address how China's leadership is undertaking this policy shift I argue that China's version of New Governance is being undertaken in such a way as to protect the Chinese Communist Party's monopoly over power This double edged strategy is aimed at improving the capacity consists of Social Construction on the one hand and Social Management Innovation on the other Social Construction aims to increase and diversify the supply of public goods provision by building the capacity of local governments and non state organizations to address their own social problems Social Management Innovation consists of parallel policies and institutions the party state is creating to ensure its monopoly over social power in the face of Social Construction The dissertation includes case studies of Beijing Shanghai and Guangdong

Governance Innovation and Policy Change Nele Noesselt, 2018-10-15 This edited volume assesses governance innovation and institutional change under the fifth generation of China's political leaders headed by Xi Jinping The configuration of long term policy innovation without regime change requires skilled political actors who secure strategic majorities and set up coalitions to design and launch new policies Recalibrations or reconfigurations of the governance model respond to domestic reform pressures or external shocks in order to secure regime survival Given that most structural constraints and reform pressures do not arise out of a sudden the thrilling question is why the political elites sometimes decide not to engage in institutional reforms despite of widespread societal support for major restructuring and why they suddenly launch institutional changes in times of relative stability The authors address these issues by focusing on basic patterns and paradigms of governance and institutional change in China the actors and drivers of governance innovation as well as the impact of norms values and socio cognitive orientations This is added by some reflections on the interplay between abstract ideas reform debates and the making of concrete decisions as outlined by the Third Plenum on socio economic reforms in 2013 and the Fourth Plenum on rule based governance fazhi in 2014

Good Governance in China - A Way Towards Social Harmony Wang Mengkui, 2008-12-03 Good governance is necessary for effective public administration and delivery of public goods and services This is an important issue for all countries but in particular for rapidly developing countries such as China where reform of governance and public administration is a key element of the public policy agenda This book explores the key issues in governance and public administration facing China s policy makers today Edited by Wang Mengkui the former President of the Development Research Center of the State Council and Chairman of the China Development Research Foundation one of China s leading think tanks it contains 36 papers selected from nearly 300 case studies presented by participants in the China s Leaders in Development Executive Program The authors are outstanding and experienced officials and together represent the voice of China s new rising generation of leaders policy makers and officials The cases are based on first hand information and experiences either from the officials personal involvement or their own in depth investigations The chapters cover a wide range of issue areas such as institutional reform urban construction social governance crisis management resource and ecological environmental management education and public health and economic reform and development Taken together it provides an invaluable resource for anyone seeking to understand China s own thinking on its governance and public administration

The Governance Structures of Chinese Firms Chun Liao, 2021 This book systematically defines and analyses the rise of China s innovation system and Chinese corporate governance model China s achievement in artificial intelligence and high technology innovation has attracted the global attention The country s innovation system and Chinese model arose during the period between the mid 1990s and the first decade of 21 century making it one of the leading countries in those fields This revised and expanded edition examines the Chinese innovation business model based on the basic concept of firm s governance structure It builds upon five dimensions ownership and shareholding structure interrelation between employer and employee interrelation between firms financing pattern and performance criteria and innovation system and core competitiveness This book also compares China s innovation system with the American model and with the European model exemplified by Germany     China's National Governance from the Perspective of Technological Innovation and System Management Zhicheng Tang,2021-09-01

Social Transformation and State Governance in China Xianglin Xu,2020-06-08 This volume is a selection of Chinese political scholar Xianglin Xu's published works spanning nearly 20 years of research that explore and discuss the socio-economic transition in China under state political reform Contextualized within the decades following the 80s the author analyzes patterns observed from empirical studies and breaks down the underlining reasoning conditions and functionalities behind the incremental reform policies pushed forward by the Party and government The collection is broken up into four sections the first provides a general framework and theoretical historical introduction to social transition research in the case of China the second section discusses the underpinning logic behind political reform in China and practical concerns the third section follows with discussions on reform policy practices within China including application and trajectory the final section concludes with an analysis of reform within state institutional infrastructure and policy innovation     The Integrated Service in Urban Community Governance Liwen Hou,2025-09-24 This book analyzes new situations and challenges for the Shanghai model of community governance in subdistrict system reform government purchased services social institution development grid based management and the opening up of blocks social governance with social power team building of community workers etc taking the reform of community governance in Shanghai Both structural and social reasons for that are demonstrated as well In this way as for governance elements the innovation process key steps and multiple practices in primary level society a systematic and integrated model restructuring is proposed which centers on the community for solutions To be specific it refers to an integrated service model construction based on community so as to advance the modernization of the primary level governance system in Shanghai and its governance capabilities The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content     Civil Society under Authoritarianism Jessica C. Teets,2014-06-09 Despite the dominant narrative of the repression of civil society in China Civil Society under Authoritarianism The China Model argues that interactions between local officials and civil society facilitate a learning process whereby each actor learns about the intentions and work processes of the other Over the past two decades often facilitated by foreign donors and problems within the general social framework these interactions generated a process in which officials learned the benefits and disadvantages of civil society Civil society supports local officials efforts to provide social services and improve public policies yet it also engages in protest and other activities that challenge social stability and development This duality motivates local officials in China to construct a social management system known as consultative authoritarianism to encourage the beneficial aspects and discourage the dangerous ones

Public Participation and State Building in China Dragan Pavličević,2019-10-23 This book explores non electoral means of public participation in contemporary China both as an outcome of and a key contributor to the party state's efforts to improve its governing capacity Examining consultative meetings public hearings and the use of surveys and questionnaires in Zhejiang province on an empirical level the study evaluates the historical development and institutional backgrounds of these mechanisms as well as provides a critical assessment of their achievements and failures At the same time on a theoretical level this book contributes to the broader scholarship on contemporary Chinese politics and political development within one party regimes as well as debates about state building and democratisation Relying on the distinction between access to and exercise of power it concludes that non electoral public participation is in fact a function of state building Developing a state capable of producing effective solutions to governing challenges it is argued requires public participation in the governing process With analysis informed by interviews with local level policy makers and officials academics and citizens representatives and activists Public Participation and State Building in China will be a valuable research resource for students and scholars of Chinese politics political science and civil society
