Word-order Change as a Source of Grammaticalisation Susann Fischer, 2010 followed by the loss of morphology Book Jacket Formal Studies in Slovenian Syntax Franc Lanko Marušič, Rok Žaucer, 2016-12-15 Although in the early days of generative linguistics Slovenian was rarely called on in the development of theoretical models the attention it gets has subsequently grown so that by now it has contributed to generative linguistics a fair share of theoretically important data With 13 chapters that all build on Slovenian data this book sets a new milestone The topics discussed in the volume range from Slovenian clitics which are called on to shed new light on the intriguing Person Case Constraint and to provide part of the evidence for a new generalization relating the presence of the definite article and Wackernagel clitics to functional elements such as the future auxiliary and possibility modals the latter of which are discussed also from the perspective of language change Even within the relatively well researched topics like wh movement new findings are presented both in relation to the structure of the left periphery and to the syntax of relative clauses

The Syntax-Discourse Interface Petra B. Schumacher, 2005-09-22 This book combines theoretical and experimental aspects of the establishment of dependency It provides an account of dependency relations by focusing on the representation and interpretation of referentially dependent elements particularly regular reflexives logophors and pronouns First the establishment of dependency is discussed within a model of syntax discourse correspondences that predicts an economy based dependency hierarchy contingent on the level of representation at which the dependency is formed as well as the internal structure of the dependent element and its antecedent Secondly the model's predictions are substantiated by a series of experimental studies conducted in English and Dutch providing evidence from three sources of online sentence comprehension reaction time studies Broca's aphasia patient studies and event related brain potential studies The findings show that dependencies are established at distinct levels of linguistic encoding i.e. syntax or discourse determined by the presence or absence of coargumenthood and the representation of the dependency forming elements
