Clinical Management of Memory Problems (2nd Edn) (PLE: Memory) Barbara Wilson, Nick Moffat, 2014-05-09

Many patients with stroke head injuries or dementia suffer severe memory impairment and in many cases improvement may fail to occur. This book first published in 1984 followed by this second edition in 1992 offers practical guidelines to the problems and is supported by a discussion of theory about memory systems and functioning. It should enable therapists and psychologists to recognize, understand, assess and manage memory problems arising from injury, accident or infection of the brain. The authors are well known for their interest in memory and memory therapy. Topics covered in this text include the relationship between memory and practice, assessment methods for improving memory, organization of memory therapy, selection of appropriate treatments for individual patients, role of the microcomputer in memory rehabilitation, use of drugs in stimulating memory, development of programmes to improve attention and the treatment of the memory impaired in groups. This second edition has an update on drugs, electronic aids and assessment procedures with further evidence of the effectiveness of memory therapy. This book would have been an asset for those professionals involved in the rehabilitation of the impaired memory at the time and can still be of value today.

Moffat, Barbara A. Wilson, 2013-11-11 The Assessment, Evaluation and Rehabilitation of Everyday Memory Problems

Barbara A. Wilson, 2013-11-07 In the World Library of Psychologists series, international experts present career-long collections of what they judge to be their finest work: extracts from books, key articles, salient research findings and their major theoretical and practical contributions. This volume of self-selected papers recognises Professor Barbara A. Wilson's major contribution to the study of neuropsychology. Published over a 25-year period, the papers included here address the assessment, treatment and evaluation of rehabilitation provided to people who have memory difficulties arising from an injury or illness affecting the brain. This selection of papers includes work on errorless learning, the natural history of the development of compensatory memory systems, paging systems developed to enhance independent daily living for memory-impaired people and single case experimental designs to appraise the response of individual patients. The final section includes a practical framework for understanding compensatory behaviour, a model of cognitive rehabilitation and a discussion of the dilemmas created by the different aims of neuroscience as opposed to those of clinicians. This book will be of great interest to clinical psychologists, neuropsychologists, occupational therapists and speech and language therapists, along with anyone who is interested in reducing the impact of memory problems on people who have suffered brain injury.

Memory in Science for Society Robert Logie,Nelson Cowan,Susan Gathercole,Randall Engle,Zhisheng Wen,2023 Memory is essential for every day life The understanding and study of memory has continued to grow over the years thanks to well controlled laboratory studies and theory development However major challenges arise when attempting to apply theories of memory function to practical problems in society A theory might be robust in explaining experimental data but fail to capture all that is important when taken out of the lab The good news is that the application of memory in science to challenges in society is rapidly expanding and Memory in Science for Society bridges that gap Inspired by the synergy between theory and application in memory research leading international researchers share their passion for combining memory in science with applications of that science to a wide range of challenges in society Chapters demonstrate how that scientific passion has addressed challenges in education life attainment second language learning remembering life events and faces of strangers future planning and decision making lifespan cognitive development and age related cognitive decline following instructions and assessment and rehabilitation of cognitive impairment following brain damage Written and edited by the leading researchers in the field the book will be an important and influential addition to the memory literature providing a new and comprehensive focus on the connection between theory and practice in memory and society
