Creating America's Future James T. Ziegenfuss, 2008 American citizens assume that the future for this country will be a future much like the past beautiful in many respects This optimistic view is now countered by those who see a country in decay struggling to address problems in health care education the environment international affairs and other sectors This book calls on citizens and their leaders to build the future they most desire The future should not happen to citizens but instead be created by citizens In part one this book examines the reasons for future building and the processes for doing so through interactive public sector private sector dialogue and by applying methods of continuous improvement reengineering and visioning In part two Ziegenfuss presents scenarios of America's future that include the country's points of decay trends vision and strategies in each of the parts of America meaning energy health care transportation business housing and urban development education arts and entertainment science environment agriculture international affairs and defense and law and justice Public and private citizens especially students teachers and planners are encouraged to lead the debates with hope and vision defining the future they most desire Book jacket Creating America Joyce Moser, Ann Watters, 2001-08 For Writing Composition courses especially those with a focus on argument and or research This reader emphasizes the argumentative strategies students need to analyze and write arguments At the same time it helps students see that Americans have always defined themselves and maintained a sense of unity despite great diversity through ongoing public debate about what America means Selections reflect colonial times to the present and include posters photographs advertisements and court cases in addition to essays poems and stories Creating America, 2002-02-02 Re-creating America Dana W. Wilbanks, 1996 Re Creating America explores U S immigration and refugee policy from a Christian perspective What are the contributions that Christian communities can make to public discourse and decision making This book does not presume that Christian ethics leads directly to policy solutions It does maintain that Christians can bring an orientation to migration issues that is significant for shaping the policies of the national community The argument of the book leads to support for generous admission policies with preferential provisions for those in greatest need for a place of safety and opportunity Creating Africa in America Jacqueline Copeland-Carson, 2012-03-13 With a booming economy that afforded numerous opportunities for immigrants throughout the 1990s the Twin Cities area has attracted people of African descent from throughout the United States and the world and is fast becoming a transnational metropolis Minnesota's largest urban area the region now also has the country's most diverse black population A closely drawn ethnography Creating Africa in America Translocal Identity in an Emerging World City seeks to understand and evaluate the process of identity formation in the context of globalization in a way that is also site specific Bringing to this study a rich and interesting professional history and expertise Jacqueline Copeland Carson focuses on a Minneapolis based nonprofit the Cultural Wellness Center which combines different ethnic approaches to bodily health and community well being as the basis for a shared translocal

African culture The book explores how the body can become a surrogate locus for identity thus displacing territory as the key referent for organizing and experiencing African diasporan diversity Showing how alternatives are created to mainstream majority and Afrocentric approaches to identity she addresses the way that bridges can be built in the African diaspora among different African immigrant African American and other groups As this thoughtful and compassionate ethnographic study shows the fact that there is no simple and concrete way to define how one can be African in contemporary America reflects the tangled nature of cultural processes and social relations at large Copeland Carson demonstrates the cultural creativity and social dexterity of people living in an urban setting and suggests that anthropologists give more attention to the role of the nonprofit sector as a forum for creating community and identity throughout African diasporan history in the United States
