Confessions Of A Failed Environmentalist A Novel:

Confessions of a Failed Environmentalist Jennifer Ellis, 2015-08-16 Alana Matheson always tries to do the right thing for the environment even when it means boycotting school meatball day forgoing the use of makeup or getting entangled in a bet with her non chicken loving ex husband over which of them can be the most environmentally conscious So when a mining company proposes developing a mine right in the middle of the community watershed well of course Alana is going to be on the front lines opposing the development Except she isn't To her own shock and dismay she finds herself taking a job with the mining company Worse she finds herself drawn to her attractive and mysterious boss Nate a capitalist mining executive The enemy Alana struggles to do right by the community deal with her feelings for Nate and maintain her own environmental morals But as the conflict over the mine heats up it gets increasingly difficult to be on the wrong side and both Nate and Alana are cracking under the pressure Part satire part serious Confessions of a Failed Environmentalist is about the cast of characters who seem to pop up in all environmental disputes and how all of us fail sometimes to do the right thing for the environment in both big and small ways The Literature and Politics of the Environment John Parham, 2023 Essays exploring interrelated strands of material ecologies past and present British politics and the act of writing through a rich variety of case studies Much as the complexities of climate change and the Anthropocene have queried the limits and exclusions of literary representation so too have the challenges recently presented by climate activism and intersectional environmentalism animal rights and even the power of material forms such as oil plastic and heavy metals Social and protest movements have revived the question of whether there can be such a thing as an activist ecocriticism can such an approach only concern itself with consciousness or might it politicise literary criticism in a new way Attempting to respond this volume coalesces around three interrelated strands material ecologies past and present British politics and the act of writing itself Contributors consider the ways in which literary form has foregrounded the complexities of both matter in essays on water sugar and land and political economics from empire and nationalism to environmental justice movements and local and regional communities The volume asks how life writing nature writing creative nonfiction and autobiography although genres entrenched in capitalist political realities can also confront these by reinserting personal experience Can we bring a more sustainable planet into being by focusing on those literary forms which have the ability to imagine the conditions and systems needed to do so Literature and sustainability Adeline Johns-Putra, John Parham, Louise Squire, 2017-08-16 This electronic version has been made available under a Creative Commons BY NC ND open access license How might literary scholarship engage with the sustainability debate Aimed at research scholars and advanced students in literary and environmental studies this collection brings together twelve essays by leading and up coming scholars on the theme of literature and sustainability In today's sociopolitical world sustainability has become a ubiquitous term yet one potentially driven to near meaninglessness by the extent of its usage While much has been written on sustainability in various domains this volume sets out to foreground the contributions literary scholarship might make to notions of sustainability both as an idea with a particular history and as an attempt to reconceptualise the way we live Essays in this volume take a range of approaches using the tools of literary analysis to interrogate sustainability's various paradoxes and to examine how literature in its various forms might envisage notions of sustainability

Ideal Minds Michael Trask, 2020-11-15 Following the 1960s that decade's focus on consciousness raising transformed into an array of intellectual projects far afield of movement politics The mind's powers came to preoccupy a range of thinkers and writers ethicists pursuing contractual theories of justice radical ecologists interested in the paleolithic brain seventies cultists and the devout of both evangelical and New Age persuasions In Ideal Minds Michael Trask presents a boldly revisionist argument about the revival of subjectivity in postmodern American culture connecting familiar figures within the seventies intellectual landscape who share a commitment to what he calls neo idealism as a weapon in the struggle against discredited materialist and behaviorist worldviews In a heterodox intellectual and literary history of the 1970s Ideal Minds mixes ideas from cognitive science philosophy of mind moral philosophy deep ecology political theory science fiction neoclassical economics and the sociology of religion Trask also delves into the decade's more esoteric branches of learning including Scientology anarchist theory rapture prophecies psychic channeling and neo Malthusianism Through this investigation Trask argues that a dramatic inflation in the value of consciousness and autonomy beginning in the 1970s accompanied a growing argument about the state's inability to safeguard such values Ultimately the thinkers Trask analyzes John Rawls Arne Naess L Ron Hubbard Hal Lindsey Philip Dick Ursula Le Guin Edward Abbey William Burroughs John Irving and James Merrill found alternatives to statism in conditions that would lend intellectual support to the consolidation of these concepts in the radical free market ideologies of the 1980s
